God's Spy

In this classic life-changing story, Chris Panos, American businessman turned evangelist, in James Bond fashion, brings the Gospel message into foreign lands. Reading like a movie script, God's Spy chronicles amazing and miraculous events made possible only through the supernatural workings of the Holy Spirit. Overcoming danger and opposition, the action never ceases as Chris escapes close calls with the KGB, experiences God's supernatural provisions, and sees miracles and healings happen in the lives of those who now turn their allegiance over to Jesus Christ. Whether preaching to crowds of well over 200,000, world leaders, or an outcast individual, Chris Panos' message remains simple and powerful, bringing hope to even the darkest of hearts.

Dancing With Islam's Assassins

"Chris Panos shared his views on the current state of Islam, and how it conflicts with the West. Having spent decades working with Muslims all over the world, he's come to believe that the Islamic mindset involves world domination. Specifically, he said Iran's leader, President Ahmadinejad is a greater threat than bin Laden. Panos suggested that military action be taken against Iran, arguing that the country could be "put out of business" in just "seven days." Such action would reduce the possibility of nuclear devices being smuggled in the U.S., he said." George Noory, host of Coast To Coast.com

In March 2005, the elected leaders of Canada, Mexico, and the United States announced the establishment of the Security and Prosperity Partnership of North America. This announcement said in part that, "Our Partnership is committed to reach the highest results to advance the security and well-being of our people. The Partnership is trilateral in concept; while allowing any two countries to move forward on an issue, it will create a path for the third to join later."

On the very next day--October 31, 2006--Enrique Berruga, Mexico's ambassador to the United Nations, explicitly stated that a North American Union is needed, and even said that it needed to be completed within the next eight years because of the coming wave of U.S. baby boomer retirees.
